Dear Community Business Leader,

Panhandle Community Theatre is seeking businesses to partner with us for the 2012 season. Our local, non-profit, all volunteer, group of actors and stage crafters have a delightful schedule of live theatrical productions planned for the enrichment and entertainment of our community. The lineup includes, Steel Magnolias written by Robert Harling (being staged in February); Lily's Life written by local author Gail Ready; Nonsense! The Musical by Dan Coggin (in cooperation with Woodbine United Methodist Church); Agatha Christie's Then There Were None; and a holiday adaptation of Frances Hodgson Burnett's The Little Princess. All productions we do are dependent on being granted production rights, casting and meeting production costs. The average cost of a production is $1500.

PCT is requesting your assistance in helping us raise funds to cover production costs for the 2012 season. You can do this in a variety of ways. From making a donation, to sponsoring a show, you can show your support for the live dramatic arts in the Milton/Pace area. Below are listed the sponsorship opportunities available and the benefits offered to your business for partnering with PCT. Thank you for your consideration and for your generous gift.

- Sponsor: $100-$249 name listed on wall of sponsors, in Playbill and on PCT website
- Producer: $250-$999 name on wall of sponsors, PCT website, Playbill, and 2 tickets to opening night of each of our 5 main stage productions (reservations still required to hold your seats)
